1. Your Personalized Summary

You are building intimacy and connection in friendships and relationships while growing in Adult responsibility. With no children, Parent roles remain a future invitation at this time. You are living from an emerging Infant – Receiving Love capacity. Your Infant foundation is solidly in place and reliable. Joy is mastered – keep noticing and sustaining your maturity effortlessly.

Quick Band Snapshot

- Refinement: Infant (3.8), Elder (4.6)
- Cultivating: Child (3.4), Adult (3.6), Parent (3.2)
- Mastered: Joy & Stress Balance (4.2)

Maturity grows as love flows: Received → Stable → Responsible → Empathic → Wise. You are reflecting Christ's character beautifully under stress – keep walking in grace.

2. Your Joy & Stress Balance

JSI Score: 4.2 → Mastered

Joy is strong and sustainable. You recover well after caring for others, and mature kindness feels natural most of the time. Small rests amplify this further.

Life Challenges & Considerations

3. Your Strong Foundations

These early stages are solidly in place — they give you a secure relational base for your current and emerging maturity.

Infant – Receiving Love Refinement (3.8)
You receive love and comfort reliably in most situations. This foundation is very strong. Refinement is invited in resting without guilt or welcoming care more consistently during stress. God is gently polishing this base with grace.

4. Your Current Capacity

Infant – Receiving Love Refinement (3.8)

You receive love and comfort reliably in most situations. This foundation is very strong. Refinement is invited in resting without guilt or welcoming care more consistently during stress. God is gently polishing this base with grace.

5. Your Growth Invitation

God is inviting you to look forward with hope.

Child – Relational Stability: Future Stage

Your score here is in the Cultivating range (3.4). At your age (35–44), Child-level responsibilities are a future stage, not yet ready for full expression.

Child is a future stage for you — you are not yet ready for full Child roles (such as mentoring emerging leaders, guiding communities through high-anxiety seasons, or releasing control in major decisions). Your score shows encouraging early signs, but because your foundations are still developing, these capacities are not yet stable.

God is inviting you first to strengthen:

- Infant – Receiving Love (Refinement, 3.8): Practice foundational skills.
This is a normal and grace-filled place to be. Foundations come first — Child capacity will emerge as these early stages strengthen. There is no rush; God is faithfully carrying you forward (Philippians 1:6).

Adult – Personal Responsibility: Future Stage

Your score here is in the Cultivating range (3.6). At your age (35–44), Adult-level responsibilities are a future stage, not yet ready for full expression.

Adult is a future stage for you — you are not yet ready for full Adult roles (such as mentoring emerging leaders, guiding communities through high-anxiety seasons, or releasing control in major decisions). Your score shows encouraging early signs, but because your foundations are still developing, these capacities are not yet stable.

God is inviting you first to strengthen:

- Infant – Receiving Love (Refinement, 3.8): Practice foundational skills.
- Child – Relational Stability (Cultivating, 3.4): Practice foundational skills.
This is a normal and grace-filled place to be. Foundations come first — Adult capacity will emerge as these early stages strengthen. There is no rush; God is faithfully carrying you forward (Philippians 1:6).

Parent – Empathy & Guidance: Future Stage

Your score here is in the Cultivating range (3.2). At your age (35–44), Parent-level responsibilities are a future stage, not yet ready for full expression.

Parent is a future stage for you — you are not yet ready for full Parent roles (such as long-term mentoring, guiding others' growth, or correcting with consistent warmth without burnout). Your score shows encouraging early signs, but because your foundations are still developing, these capacities are not yet stable. With no children, Parent roles remain a future invitation at this time.

God is inviting you first to strengthen:

- Infant – Receiving Love (Refinement, 3.8): Practice foundational skills.
- Child – Relational Stability (Cultivating, 3.4): Practice foundational skills.
- Adult – Personal Responsibility (Cultivating, 3.6): Practice foundational skills.
This is a normal and grace-filled place to be. Foundations come first — Parent capacity will emerge as these early stages strengthen. There is no rush; God is faithfully carrying you forward (Philippians 1:6).

Elder – Spiritual Wisdom: Future Stage

Your score here is in the Refinement range (4.6). At your age (35–44), Elder-level responsibilities are a future stage, not yet ready for full expression.

Elder is a future stage for you — you are not yet ready for full Elder roles (such as mentoring emerging leaders, guiding communities through high-anxiety seasons, or releasing control in major decisions). Your score shows encouraging early signs, but because your foundations are still developing, these capacities are not yet stable. You may be overstating some responses — this is common in self-assessment and gives helpful insight into potential future growth.

God is inviting you first to strengthen:

- Infant – Receiving Love (Refinement, 3.8): Practice foundational skills.
- Child – Relational Stability (Cultivating, 3.4): Practice foundational skills.
- Adult – Personal Responsibility (Cultivating, 3.6): Practice foundational skills.
- Parent – Empathy & Guidance (Cultivating, 3.2): Practice foundational skills.
This is a normal and grace-filled place to be. Foundations come first — Elder capacity will emerge as these early stages strengthen. There is no rush; God is faithfully carrying you forward (Philippians 1:6).

Priority Areas for Attention – Start Here!

The following areas are not yet in the Mastered range and would benefit from focused attention. These are often the key places that hold people back in relationships and slow progress into higher stages.

Infant – Receiving Love Refinement (3.8)
You receive love and comfort reliably in most situations. This foundation is very strong. Refinement is invited in resting without guilt or welcoming care more consistently during stress. God is gently polishing this base with grace.

This level of work is foundational. Until it becomes more consistent, it can limit how stably you relate to others and make it harder to step into higher roles with confidence.

Recommended next step: We strongly encourage you to explore this area further with a trusted advisor, coach, mentor, or small group. They can help uncover specific patterns, past experiences, or triggers that may be holding you back and guide practical steps forward.

8. Supplemental: Key Concepts, Glossary & Educational Overview

Purpose of the Assessment

To measure relational and spiritual growth through five maturity stages: Infant, Child, Adult, Parent, Elder. Each stage builds on the previous, moving from receiving love to giving wise guidance. This is a grace-filled tool to reflect on how love flows in your life under stress.

How the Assessment Works

- 30 questions (5 per stage × 5 Joy & Stress items) on a 1–5 frequency scale: 1 = Almost Never → 5 = Almost Always.
- Raw stage averages determine your band (higher = more consistent expression).
- Joy & Stress Index (JSI) measures internal sustainability (reverses on items 27 & 29).
- No reverse scoring on main stages.
- Bands are grace-oriented — every result is an invitation to God's faithful work (Philippians 1:6).

Maturity Bands Explained

Band	Icon	Raw Average	What It Means
Fully Mastered	🟩	4.30–5.00	Near-ceiling consistency; joyful in nearly all situations
Mastered	🟩	4.00–4.29	Strong, reliable foundation
Mastering	🟩	≥4.00 (with prior stages not Mastered)	Strong score but not yet fully stable (foundations still developing)
Refinement	🟠	3.70–3.99	Very strong overall; small targeted improvement invited
Cultivating	🟨	3.00–3.69	Developing consistency; keep cultivating
Inviting Growth	🟥	<3.00	Significant inconsistency; focused growth invited

Life Model Overview – The Maturity Scale

The Maturity Scale is adapted from Dr. Jim Wilder's Life Model Works framework, which describes how human beings grow relationally and spiritually through five developmental stages. Each stage corresponds to a phase of life and has specific tasks that build capacity for joy, connection, and maturity.

> "Maturity is not about age or achievement; it is about the capacity to live in joy and remain relational under stress. The brain grows best in joyful, relational environments. When early stages are incomplete, higher stages are unstable. God designed us to mature through loving community, returning to joy from every unpleasant emotion, and staying connected to Him and others."
> — Dr. Jim Wilder, Life Model Works

> "The Christian life is not a matter of trying harder to be good, but of allowing Christ to live His life through us. Maturity comes as we learn to rest in His love, abide in Him, and let His life flow out to others. The goal is not self-improvement, but Christlikeness expressed in love."
> — Ray Stedman, Authentic Christianity

Historical & Non-Western Views of Maturity

In many historical and non-Western cultures, maturity stages aligned closely with life milestones and community roles, with quicker transitions to adulthood. For example:

- Infant (0–4 years, weaned child): Receiving love, basic trust, and comfort.
- Child (4–13 years): Learning relational stability, skills, and limits.
- Adult (rite of passage ~13 years): Responsibility and apprenticeship/education in preparation for family.
  - From ~13 to marriage (as early as 14): Adult in training — building independence and skills.
  - Parenting (post-marriage): Nurturing and guiding the next generation.
  - Elder (later life): Wisdom, blessing, and community leadership.

In modern Western culture, transitions are more extended due to longer education, delayed marriage/parenting, and societal norms. The "teen years" (13–18/20) often represent an extended Child stage or transition into adulthood, and many in their 20s (even freshman/sophomore college students) may still exhibit Child-level patterns like difficulty with correction or limits. This can delay full Adult responsibility, making Parent and Elder stages feel even more distant.

Your assessment results show your relational maturity, which may not always match your chronological age or cultural expectations. If you feel stuck in an earlier stage, that's common and full of grace — God meets you there and invites deeper joy and connection through safe relationships and healing.

Nuanced Stages (8 Cultural Phases)

We nuance the 5 Life Model stages into 8 phases to better reflect modern life transitions:

Nuanced Phase	Approx. Age (U.S./Western)	Life Model Stage	Key Tasks
Infant	0–3	Infant – Receiving Love	Trust, comfort, return to joy from distress
Early Child	3–6	Child – Relational Stability	Autonomy, express needs, accept limits
School Age Child	6–12	Child – Relational Stability	Competence, stay connected under correction
Adolescence / Teen	12–18/20	Child – Adult transition	Identity, relational stability in peer pressure
Young Adult	18–30/35	Adult – Personal Responsibility	Intimacy, responsibility, balance self/other
Young Parent	25–45	Parent – Empathy & Guidance (emerging)	Nurture young children with joy/patience
Older Parent	40–65	Parent – Empathy & Guidance	Mentor, guide, release older children
Young Elder	55–75	Elder – Spiritual Wisdom	Bring calm/hope, mentor, share authority
Older Elder	75+	Elder – Spiritual Wisdom	Blessing, legacy, multiply peace

Key Terms & Concepts

- Highest Level Attained / Capacity Stage: The stage most consistently expressed under stress.
- Aligned: Mature, consistent expression (Fully Mastered / Mastered).
- Emerging: Good foundation with room to grow (Refinement / Cultivating).
- Growth Invited / Redevelopmental Growth: Invitation to healing and practice in earlier stages.
- Next Stage Invitation / Active Invitation: The immediate next step God invites.
- Joy-Integrity: How sustainably you experience joy under pressure (measured by JSI).
- Future Stage ⏳: A higher stage not yet ready for full responsibility due to foundational back work.
- Developmental Alignment: How capacity aligns with age-expected stages.

Our View of Growth

Success is progress in love, joy, and connection — not perfection. Every band is an opportunity for God's grace to work. There is no failure here—only places where God meets you with love and invites deeper transformation (Philippians 1:6).
